TRY TO DIG HOLE IN FLOOR OF JAIL

Strange and Hall Endeavor to Escape on Eve of Their Return to The Reformatory.

TAKEN TO JEFFERSONVILLE

Confessed Forgers Tear Iron Bed to Pieces and Use Small Rods as Picks on Concrete.

Claude Strange and Chauncey Hall, confessed forgers who passed a bogus check at the Seymour National Bank about a week ago, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the county jail Sunday night. They tore an iron bed to pieces and used two small rods as picks on the concrete. Harvey L. McCord, sheriff, heard the noise and watched the men at work for a moment of two before he called to them. They had chipped out only a small amount of the concrete when discovered. Evidently their object was to dig a hole big enough to permit them to get into the basement of the building after which their escape would have been quite simple. After removing their improvised tools, the sheriff, had the men remove their clothing which was locked in the office until morning.

Sheriff and Mrs. McCord had been to church Sunday night and when Mrs. McCord returned home she heard the noise. Mr. McCord entered a few minutes later and she told him that the two men were creating a disturbance. He then investigated. The men had found a patched spot in the floor and thought that it could be chipped away easily.

The two men were taken to the reformatory at Jeffersonville this morning by Sheriff McCord and Policeman Charles Wallace. They objected to being handcuffed, but the officers decided to take no risk of the men escaping from them. They were sentenced by Judge James A. Cox in circuit court late Saturday afternoon to serve terms of from one to five years. Strange admitted he passed the check, and Hall said he was a party to the transaction. A check similar to the one passed at the bank was found in Hall's glove after his arrest here.

Strange admitted his part in the forgery at the time of his arrest, told the local police that he was patroled from the reformatory. Officials of the institution said that he had been paroled three times since he was sentenced from Bloomington for forgery. Hall contended that he had never been in trouble before and even threatened the police with a damage suit if they did not release him. Later it was learned that he was also a paroled convict. After he was told that the officers here knew that he was a paroled convict, he said he desired to enter a plea of guilty to the charge filed against him in the circuit court.

CARL MILLER, WELL KNOWN FARMER, PASSES AWAY

Washington Township Man Succumbs, Following Long Illness With Cancer.

Carl Miller, who resides south of Dudleytown, died at 5 o'clock this morning after an illness caused by cancer of the liver. He was born in Prussia, Germany, December 21, 1845, and came to this country fifteen years later, in 1860. He resided on his present farm for the past forty-eight yeears. Forty-seven years ago he was married to Miss Anna Otto, who with seven children, survives him. The children are: Will, of Seymour; John, of Brownstown; Harry, of Page county, Iowa; and Carl, at home; Mrs. Ed. Christopher, Mrs. Edward Bobb, near Dudleytown; and Miss Lena, at home. He is also survived by thirteen grandchildren. One son, Edward, preceded him in death about eight years ago. Mr. Miller became a member of the church at Dudleytown about forty-eight years ago.

The funeral services will be conducted from the residence Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock by the Rev. Otto Massman, pastor. Burial at the Dudleytown cemetery.

$13,000 RAISED BY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Seymour Congregation Greatly Exceeds Its Quota of $8,000 in $3,000,000 Campaign.

PRAISE SERVICE AT NIGHT

Money to be Used for The Support of Superannuated Ministers, Teachers and Orphans.

Contributions in cash and Liberty Bonds totaling almost $13,000 were made by the members of the Evangelical Lutheran church in this city Sunday morning in the local drive which was conducted as a part of the $3,000,000 endowment fund of the Evangelical Lutheran church of the Missouri Synod for the support of superannuated pastors, professors, teachers, widows and orphans. The Seymour church was given a quota of $8,000 but greatly exceeded this amount. A total of $12,904 was reported Sunday and a few outstanding subscriptions which will be made this week will bring the total to well above $13,000. With a few exceptions the contributions were in cash or Liberty Bonds. The committee reported that more than ninety-five percent. of the total was in cash or securities. The pledges are to be redeemed in a short time.

The reports filed Sunday mark the close of an active campaign which has been conducted by the local Lutheran congregation for several weeks. The financial program of the church is carried out by dividing the congregation into twenty-six districts

"SPURT" OF WINTER CROWDS OUT THE SPRING WEATHER

Fruit Buds Will Be Chilled, But Orchardists Declare They Will Not Be Frozen.

The balmy, spring weather which was enjoyed during the greater part of March was crowded out by Winter during the last few hours of the month, but the "spurt" of cool weather will be of short duration, according to the weather bureau. Orchardists declare that the lower temperature "is not very good' for the fruit buds, but that unless there is a much lower temperature tonight there is little danger of the buds being killed.

Some early blossoming trees are already in full bloom. The peaches are about ready to burst in full blossom, but the concensus of opinion among orchardists is that the cold will not be injurious until the buds have broken. The prospects for a big peach crop are good and the farmers and fruit growers are giving considerable attention to the weather conditions.

The cooler weather came late Sunday afternoon with a brisk gale which carried big clouds of dust with it. The thermometer fell rapidly until early morning. Continued cool weather is predicted for tonight and Tuesday.

COMMISSIONERS IN CHARGE OF ROADS

Opinion Given by Attorney-General on New Highway Laws of Interest to County.

CONFLICTS ARE NOT SERIOUS

Township Road Fund Levy Made Annually and Placed Under Supervision of Commissioners.

The commissioners in Jackson county have given considerable attention to the new highway legislation passed by the last legislature and have found a number of apparent conflicts. It appears that the same questions arose in other counties and the matter was taken up by Gilbert Hendren, chief of the state board of accounts with Eli Stansbury, attorney-general. Hendren asked for an opinion on fourteen points which had caused confusion.

The findings of the attorney-general are of interest in this county as they relate to the collection and expenditure of funds for both improved and unimproved roads.

The opinion points out that the county unit law provided that the road money of the township be turned over to the county treasurer to be expended by the county commissioners, but the attorney-general says "I do not believe the legislature intended to make that money available for repairs on roads in other townships. That would mean that the legislature had arbitrarily ordered money raised by a municipality for a certain purpose to be applied and used for a purpose wholly different from that for which it was paid by the people of the township, and for the benefit of other municipalities."

The fourteen questions that had been raised by township and county

FOODSTUFFS INSTEAD OF DYNAMITE SENT TO EUROPE

Explosive Exports Totaled $16,000,000 a Day in 1910, But Only $1,200,000 a Month Now.

By United Press.

Washington, March 31—Foodstuffs instead of dynamite constitute a headliner in America's manufacture exported to Europe these days.

Whereas in 1917 exports of explosives to Europe from the United States totalled about $16,000,000 a day, they now total only about $1,200,000 a month, while foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured aggregate nearly $4,000,000 a day. Counting these goods as manufactured articles, America's manufactured exports amount to approximately $13,800,000 a day. From windmills and chewing gum to iron and steel rails, these American-made goods are now pouring into all parts of the world.

MEMBERS NAMED FOR CONSERVATION BODY

Commissioners Appointed Under New Law Are to Serve Without Pay.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, March 31—Governor Goodrich this afternoon named the members of the commission of conservation created by the recent general. The members of the commissioners are: John W. Holtzman, democrat, Indianapolis; W. A. Guthrie, republican, Dupont; Stanley Coulter, republican, dean of science at Purdue University, and Prof. Richard M. Holman, head of the botany department of Wabash college.

The law provides that not more than two of the commissioners shall be of the same political faith. Members of the commissioners shall serve without pay.

It was announced that there will probably be a meeting tomorrow for organization. The new commission embodies several state departments, including the office of state geogolist, which is elected.

DEBS DENIED REHEARING BY THE SUPREME COURT

Sentenced to Serve Ten Years in Prison for Alleged Violation of Espionage Law.

FIVE ACRE CORN GROWING CONTEST

Jackson County Farmers' Association Decides to Gets Back of The Movement.

PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED

Winter Agriculture Fair is Also Under Consideration—Township Bureaus to Decide.

The directors of the Jackson county farmers' association at their meeting at Brownstown Saturday decided to get back of a men's five acre corn growing contest. This contest will be open to every farmer in Jackson county. Prizes will be offered either to three or to five of the best records made. The first prize will be a pure bred Poland China male pig about seven months old to be selected from the Henry Lucas stock. This is regarded as equivalent to $75 in cash and will be given to the farmer making the best showing of his five acres. Other prizes will be given bringing the total in value up to $150. It was not determined definitely whether three or five prizes will be offered.

In addition to the local prizes, if the contestants join the Indiana Corn Growers' Association, this organization will give a bronze medal to every farmer raising over 75 bushels per acre; a silver medal to every farmer raising over 85 bushels per acre; a gold medal to every farmer raising over 100 bushels per acre. The membership fee in the Indiana Corn Growers' Association is fifty cents this year. This Association is organized for the purpose of developing corn shows in Indiana. Any farmers interested may get fuller particulars by getting in touch with the county agent's office.

The county association also decided to affiliate with the State Farmers' Association.

The association is also considering the matter of holding a winter agricultural fair. This fair will not be like the ordinary county fair with a lot of outside attractions but will be conducted on a competitive basis for the display of agricultural products. The final decision is put up to the members in the various townships.

REPARATIONS ARE TO BE CONSIDERED

"BIG FOUR" RESUMES SESSION

Lloyd George Preparing to Submit Substitute Plan for One Offered Last Week.

By United Press.

Paris, March 31—When the "big four" resumed its session today the question of reparations was expected to be the principal subject of discussion. An effort was to be made to dispose of this question which was understood to be chiefly instrumental in delaying the peace work during the past week.

Premier Lloyd George, it was learned, was prepared to offer a substitute for the French plan presented last week which proposed that France's share of indemnities be $16,000,000,000. A prominent financial expert told the United Press today that the "big four" had obtained the advice of several financiers in this matter and that he "understood the French proposal had been headed off."

While the informant did not reveal the exact nature of the financiers' advice, he indicated that President Wilson and Lloyd George felt that $16,000,000,000 was excessive, inasmuch as from $25,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 has been agreed upon as the maximum of reparations. He added that the situation is such the French cannot expect to get an excessive amount.

Reconciliation of the French viewpoint with that of the other allies was admitted to present difficulties, but the problem will be approached sympathetically, it was said. France has insisted on Germany paying a large portion of the cost of the war. If she does not get as large an amount as she anticipated, the French people will be taxed heavier, and will resent it according to French officials.

On the other hand the other allies contend there is no use in presenting a huge war bill which could not be collected. The week is likely to see an effort made to further crystallize the work of the "big four" in an effort to increase the speed of the peace negotiations. In addition to inducing France to accept a lower figure for reparation, the other allies will seek to reconcile the French claim to the Saar Valley with Wilson's position that no territory now distinctly German must become a French possession.

As one Paris newspaper expressed it, annexation of the Saar valley would be likely to create a new "Alsace-Lorraine" which would later be a fruitful cause for war. A compromise may be attempted by which France would obtain large quantities of coal from the Saar basin without actually converting that region into French territory.

HOPE FOR SETTLEMENT OF DANZIG QUESTION GROWS

Marshal Foch Extends Invitation to Plenipotentiary to Meet at Spa.

By United Press.

Berlin, March 31—Hope grew in official circles here today that the Danzig question would be settled without a break with the allies. The newspapers approve the proposal for further negotiations with the allies regarding their demand that Polish troops be permitted to land at Danzig. Marshal Foch is said to have extended the invitation for a plenipotentiary to meet him at Spa to discuss this matter.

The strike at Essen is increasing. More than forty thousand workers, under Spartacan leadership, are demanding a general strike throughout central Europe.

CONTROL OF DISEASE.

The United States public health service has launched a plan to bring about the active co-operation of the 730 cities of the United States having a population of 8,000 and over in the work of venereal disease control. Inquiries have been sent to approximately ten prominent citizens in each of these cities who are requested to name the local civic organizations best equipped to bring together all local agencies in the fight against venereal disease. Such an organization will be designated by the state board of health and the United States public health service, according to the consensus of opinion of these leading citizens.

The local civic organization selected will stimulate interest in the problem of venereal disease control in order to bring about the adoption of medical, educational and law enforcement measures advocated by the public health service. It will seek to co-ordinate the activities of the various organizations already at work.

Each city will be graded from two to four times during the year on the basis of a possible 1,000 points, according to the action which the city has taken for the purpose of preventing the spread of venereal disease. It is planned that the proposed grading will be done by an officer of the public health service, who will make a personal visit to each city for the purpose. The gradings of the 730 cities will be published and comparisons made between cities of approximately the same size.

SLACKER PETS.

(St. Louis Globe Democrat.)

As officers are gradually released from military service they are telling the truth about the lenient treatment of self-styled conscientious objectors directed by Secretary Baker, under admonitions to "keep the instructions from getting into the newspapers." The charges were long ago given wide circulation, but there were carefully worded statements from the War Department, construed as emphatic denials, although, when scrutinized, they were patent evasions, intended to deceive. The accumulating evidence is becoming overwhelming that all sorts of shirkers including cowards and German sympathizers, were ordered treated as privileged characters. They were exempted from the stern discipline enforced against soldiers who had responded to their country's call and were ready to give their all in the defense of the government which had done no more for them than for the miserable skullers who pleaded conscience as an excuse for escaping their patriotic duty.

Positive denials from Secretary Baker will be received with suspicion. The country remembers too many of his assurances and denials which turned out to be without substantial basis to accept his unsupported word on any subject affecting his administration. They remember the cheery assurances in February, 1918, as to the sending of aircraft to Europe "in quantity," a gross misrepresentation which, no matter how he might have been temporarily misled by subordinates into making, hee should have had the common decency to correct, as soon as he discovered the facts. They recall his denial that General March had reprimanded General Crowder, although Col. George Harvey has reproduced the exact text of the reprimand, sent to all members of tre General Staff. That all the pacifists and slackers considered Secretary Baker their "friend," is a matter of common knowledge and that he acted as their friend in critical cases is now a matter of proof, growing continually in strength. His action in releasing the crowd of slackers at Fort Leavenworth, with honorable discharges new suits of clothes and full pay, giving them a chance to get jobs in advance of the vallant defenders of the republic still held in service, was a conspicuous illustration of the Baker attitude. He is the only secretary of war any country ever had that believed in treating slackers with more tenderness than soldiers.

$30,000 APPROPRIATED FOR TRAINING OF NURSES

Provision Made By War Council of American Red Cross Before Its Resignation.

The war council of the American Red Cross before its resignation appropriated $30,000 to be used in making loans to nurses desiring to take courses in public health nursing, and in providing scholarships in certain institutions conducting courses in this work.

The maximum amount to be loaned to any one nurse is $350, and the scholarships which extend over four and eight month periods amount to a maximum of $300 and $600 respectively. It is intended that this fund be applied to aid all nurses wishing to take up public health nursing whether they are recruited by Red Cross chapters, through the Red Cross division office, through the national headquarters, or at the Red Cross Bureau of Information in New York. The principal purpose in asking for this sum was to arrange for the instruction of nurses returning from abroad who wished to enter the public health nursing field.

All nurses benefitting by this Red Cross scholarship fund must agree to serve for one year under the Red Cross public health nursing service, and will be allotted for appointment to the various divisions by national headquarters bureau.

It is hoped that Red Cross chapters will encourage a local graduate nurse to take the course qualifying her for public health nursing by paying the expenses of the course or loaning enough money to finance this education. In this way the services of the nurse will be assured to the chapter when the course is finished.

Public health nurses will be appointed to chapters by the Lake Division bureau of public health nursing. Every effort will be made to secure for chapters the nurses they designate provided that these nurses meet Red Cross requirements for service, and are enrolled Red Cross nurses. Chapters are being asked to urge suitable nurses to make application for enrollments with the Red Cross.

"OH, BOY"

"Oh, Boy," the fourth New York Princess Theatre musical comedy success, is announced by F. Ray Comstock and William Elliott as the attraction at the Majestic Theatre, Tuesday, April 8th. The book and lyrics of "Oh, Boy" are by Guy Bolton and P. G. Wodehouse and the music is by Jerome Kern. "Oh, Boy" is the fourth and the best of the New York Princess Theatre musical productions that have included "Nobody Home" and "Very Good Eddie." It is smart and bright and has the unmistakable quality of excellence so rare in musical comedies. In the special organization which will play here will be Lavinia Winne, Theodora Warfield, Helen Dubois, Anna Little, Harry Myers, Franklyn Graham, Thomas C. Leary, J. E. Rome and Johnnie Philliber.

Among the song hits in "Oh, Boy" are "Let's Make A Night of It," "You Never Knew About Me," "A Package of Seeds," "An Old-Fashioned Wife," "A Pal Like You," "Till the Clouds Roll By," "A Little Bit of Ribbon," "The First Day of May," "Koo-La-Loo," "Rolled Into One," "Oh, Daddy, Please," "When It's Nesting Time in Flatbush," "Words Are Not Needed," and "Flubby Dub, the Cave Man."

AUTOMOBILE THEFT—An act which became effective on March 13 makes it a misdemeanor for any person to have in his possession any automobile or motorcycle from which the manufacturer's serial number or any other distinguished or identification mark or number has been removed, defaced, destroyed or covered for the purpose of concealing the identity of the automobile or motorcycle.

NATIONAL GUARD—At the outbreak of the war many Indiana National guardsmen were inducted into federal service and were not supplied with uniforms; the state of Indiana, through the adjutant general's office purchased and supplied suitable uniforms to both officers and men at a cost of $13.31 per man. Under the provisions of the military laws of the state neither officers nor men can receive credit for these uniforms until they are returned and since they have been worn out the obligation cannot be discharged. By an act which became effective March 14, the adjutant general is authorized to repay to each federalized Indiana National guardsman the sum of $13.31 paid for uniforms and to discharge all obligations against Indiana National guard officers created by the purchase of uniforms.

Boys Swat Dogs, Buy Sheep.

For every dog kept a loss of $36.50 must be pocketed every year. For every sheep kept a profit of $27.60 may be pocketed every year.

At least, that is the way the proposition was itemized on the blackboard of a mountain schoolhouse by a farm-demonstration agent in Kentucky. And the figures were convincing. There was not a sheep in the district at the time the figures were placed on the blackboard. Somebody said there used to be one sheep—a wether—"down the mountain a ways," but the dogs ate him.

A few weeks from the time the agent placed the figures on the board fifteen boys each had contrived to buy a sheep. Eleven dogs had been killed. Several other families, pestered by their small sons, but still unwilling to kill their dogs, were trying to give the brutes away.

Similar movements were started at other schools. Now, in that district, there are 622 boys who are members of the sheep club. Among them they own nearly 2,665 sheep. By the tax returns, the dog population appears to have increased also, but the agent says this is not true. Formerly there was no sentiment for enforcement of the dog law, he says, but now there is a very strong sentiment that way, and, while there has been a considerable decrease in the number of dogs, there is an apparent increase, because people who formerly evaded the dog tax now have to pay it.

Henry H. Turley of Lawrence county administrator of the estate of William Turley, deceased, has filed suit for $20,000 damages against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, as the result of alleged flood losses sustained in 1913. The suit was filed in the Lawrence circuit court. The alleged damage was to farm lands owned by Mr. Turley in the Rivervale neighborhood and the complaint sets out that they occurred in March, 1913, while floodwaters from White river were in evidence in that section. The complaint alleges that a fill on the above line washed out and cinders and other material that went to make the fill were deposited over the bottom lands of said plaintiff in large quantities, reaching a depth of several feet in certain places.

Accomplishing Most Wonderful Results

"I want to thank you for your wonderful oil," states Mr. J. C. Gibson, of Jonesboro, Ark. "My little girl was very low with diphtheria; I had given her two doses of medicine which cost me $10, with no results. I bought a 25c bottle of your oil and one application relieved her. Now she is well. It is the greatest remedy I ever saw." Mr. Gibson made this statement before hundreds of people. Mrs. Florence Meager, 234 Whitney Street, Hartford, Conn., writes: "I have used your Antiseptic Oil for neuralgia with good effects. Only thing I have ever tried that stopped the pain immediately." Mrs. Williams, Gadsden, Ala., writes: "I have used your great pain oil for rheumatism, stiff joints, also for sore throat, and I want to say that it is the greatest remedy I ever tried. I recommend it to all sufferers." Many cures reported daily from thousands of grateful users of this wonderful oil. Every bottle guaranteed. 30c, 60c and $1.00 a bottle, or money refunded, at Maxon Pharmacy, Seymour, Ind.

Starving in the Midst of Plenty

Acid-Stomach Steals Strength and Good Feelings From Millions

One of the worst features of acid-stomach is that very often it literally starves its victims in the midst of plenty. And the strange thing about it is that the people with acid-stomachs seldom know what their trouble really is.

No matter how good or wholesome the food may be, or how much they eat, they do not gain in strength. This is clearly explained by the fact that an acid-stomach cannot properly digest food. Instead of healthy, normal digestion, the excess acid causes the food to sour and ferment. Then when this mass of sour, fermented food, charged with excess acid, passes into the intestines, it becomes the breeding place for all kinds of germs and toxic poisons, which in turn are absorbed into the blood and in this way distributed throughout the entire body. And that is exactly why it is that so many thousands of people eat and eat and keep on eating and yet are literally starving in the midst of plenty. Their acid-stomachs make it absolutely impossible for them to get the full measure of nourishment out of their food. And it doesn't take long for this poor nourishment to show its ill effects in a weakened, emaciated body.

You may say: "My stomach doesn't hurt me." That may be true because many victims of acid-stomach do not actually suffer stomach pains. Then again, there are millions who do suffer all kinds of aches and pains—headaches, rheumatic twinges, gout, lumbago, pains around the heart and in the chest—who never dream that an acid-stomach is the real cause of the trouble.

Naturally, the sensible thing to do is to strike right at the very cause of this trouble and clean the excess acid out of the stomach. There is a quick, easy way to do this. A wonderful new remedy quickly removes the excess acid without the slightest discomfort. It is EATONIC. Made in the form of tablets—they are good to eat—just like a bit of candy. They literally absorb the injurious excess acid and carry it away through the intestines. They also drive the bloat out of the body—in fact you can fairly feel it work. Make a test of EATONIC in your own case today. Get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist. See for yourself how surely it brings quick relief in those painful attacks of indigestion, bitter heartburn, belching, disgusting food repeating, that awful bloated, lumpy feeling after eating and other stomach miseries. Banish all your stomach troubles so completely that you forget you have a stomach. Then you can eat what you like and digest your food in comfort without fear of distressing after effects.

If EATONIC does not relieve you, it will not cost you one penny. You can return it to your druggist and get your money back. So if you have the slightest question about your health—if you feel you are not getting all the strength out of your food—if you are not feeling tip-top, ready for your work, full of vim and vigor—do give EATONIC a fair trial this very day and see how much better you will feel.

with a captain and assistants for each. Two of the districts, however, are large, and for the special endowment drive each of these was divided, making a total of twenty-eight districts. The captains and assistants worked industriously and the success of their work was plainly evident by the reports Sunday.

Under the plan agreed upon, the pastors of the Seymour, Columbus and Jonesville church exchanged pulpits Sunday morning. The Rev. E. H. Eggers, pastor of the local church, preached at Columbus, and the Rev. Fred Wambsganss, of Columbus, preached at Jonesville. The Rev. Paul Dannenfield, pastor at Jonesville, preached at the Seymour church. Reports by the financial committees were made at the morning service in each church.

The committees reported during the afternoon and announcement of the amount contributed was made at the Sunday night service when a prayer and praise meeting was conducted. The Rev. Mr. Eggers gave a short talk at night, congratulating the members upon their liberality in the campaign. A program of songs or praise was given.

Mr. Eggers, who has charge of the campaign in the southern Indiana district stated this morning that from the early reports from have been received from other church, he believes that the grand total in the general campaign will greatly exceed the goal of $3,000,000 and that as much as four or five million may be reported when the final returns are made.

The cash that is contributed in the campaign will be invested in government securities and Liberty Bonds were acceptable in this drive. The members are to be congratulated upon the splendid results of the campaign which show the effects of an excellent organization.

All Choked Up With Catarrh? Why Continue Makeshift Treatment?

Sprays and douches will never cure you.

Catarrh is annoying enough when it chokes up your nostrils and air passages, causing painful and difficult breathing and other discomforts. But the real danger comes when it reaches down into your lungs.

This is why you should at once realize the importance of the proper treatment, and lose no time experimenting with worthless remedies which touch only the surface. To be rid of Catarrh, you must drive the disease germs out of your blood.

Splendid results have been reported from the use of S. S. S., which completely routs from your blood the Catarrh germs, for which it is a perfect antidote.

S. S. S. is sold by all druggists. If you wish medical advice as to the treatment of your own individual case, write to-day to Chief Medical Adviser, Swift Specific Co., Dept. B, Atlanta, Ga.

IT TAKES GOOD SOLES TO DO THIS

"George Wentworth, a letter carrier here, has worn a pair of shoes with Neōlin Soles four months and two days. His route is twenty miles a day. This test made at our request, proves the wearing quality of Neōlin Soles to our satisfaction." From Lothrops-Farnham Co., Dover, N. H.

Only Neōlin Soles will stand up under a test like this. People who are hard on shoes will save money if they buy them with Neōlin Soles. These shoes come in many styles for men, women and children.

Have Neōlin Soles put on your worn shoes too. Any good repair shop will apply them. Remember—they are made by Science to be comfortable and waterproof, also. Manufactured by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

SISTER OF LOCAL WOMAN DIES IN PHILADELPHIA

Miss Caroline Schmidt Passes Away Following an Operation.

Miss Caroline Schmidt, aged fifty-eight years, sister of Mrs. Dora Schleter, of Seymour, died Friday in Philadelphia, following an operation on the ear. The Bedford Mail says:

Miss Caroline Schmidt passed away at 11 o'clock yesterday, at Philadelphia, of complications following an operation on the ear. The news of her death comes as a shock, as a letter written last Tuesday said she was getting along nicely. A message was received Thursday that she was in a critical condition, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Meglemere left immediately for that city.

She was born in this city March 19, 1868, aged 58 years and 9 days, to Christopher and Caroline Schmidt, and was the fourth member of the large family to answer the last summons. She was a graduate of the B. H. S., being the second member of the 1886 class to pass away, the other, Will Glover, having gone on years ago. The surviving members of the class are Mrs. Kate Parks, of Oklahoma, and Miss Lillian Voris, of this city.

She taught common school three years in Posey county, going to Indianapolis in 1889 as teacher in the State School for the Deaf. In 1895 she went to Mount Airy, Philadelphia as teacher in the Pennsylvania State School for the Deaf, where she taught continuously until her last illness, with the exception of one year (1904) when under a leave of absence she had charge of the Iowa State School for the Deaf at Council Bluffs. She had traveled extensively in the United States, and had made two trips abroad.

She was a member of the First Christian church of this city, and was the first president of the Christian Endeavor Society of that church.

Highly cultured, broadened by keeping abreast of the times and of a charming personality, she won for herself friends of all with whom she came in contact. Despite the many years she was away from here she always cherished the memory of her early days, and looked forward with pleasure to her summer trip home, a pleasure which was shared by her relatives and friends in this city.

She is survived by two brothers and four sisters, Mrs. Dora Schleter, of Seymour; Mrs. Euphemia Graf, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Susan Weigand and Mrs. Lula Meglemere; Gus Schmidt, of this city, and Erdman Schmidt, of New Albany.

The funeral services will be held and interment made in Philadelphia.

Girls Herd Their Own Sheep.

"After paying all expenses, I cleared $1,240 from my sheep last year," reports Hazel Jeffrey, a member of a sheep club organized in Fremont County, Wyo. Several years ago she bought the first of a flock and has handled her sheep so successfully that this winter they number 103 ewes. In 1918 her flock produced 79 lambs, 76 of which she raised. These, with 7 orphan lambs abandoned by sheep herders constituted the year's increase. All the care the sheep require is given them by their girl owner. This spring she plans with part of her profits to buy 25 pure-bred Cotswood ewes in Nebraska and use them to start a pure-bred flock.

A girl in Sheridan County, Wyo., in 1918 cleared $923 with a flock of 48 ewes. During the coming season these two girls plan to throw their sheep together and to herd them themselves over the Big Horn mountains. Orphan lambs discarded by other camps are also to be collected and cared for by the youthful herders. Members of the boys' and girls' sheep clubs in some of the Western States find the salvaging of "bum" or stray lambs an economical way of obtaining a start in the sheep-club work.

SHOWING HOW TO GUARD AGAINST A GARDEN COLD

"Water on the knee" or even a bad cold, might have kept this Maryland boy from completing the garden that he started out to cultivate last spring.

So, when he was transplanting or doing other garden work which required him to kneel, he tied a flour bag around his knee.

It wasn't very stylish, but it worked, and he recommends this method to other gardeners. A piece of oilcloth or the sleeve of an old rubber coat makes an excellent protector for the knees while working in the garden.

"The board of commissioners have control, management and supervision of the unimproved township roads.

"The township trustee should immediately pay the balance of his road fund into the county treasury and should also pay into the county treasury the proceeds of the road levy to be collected for the current and subsequent years.

"The county commissioners must expend the road repair money levied by the township advisory boards on repairs of the unimproved roads in the township where the levy is made.

"The county free gravel road system must be cared for as heretofore.

"The township road fund levy for repairs should be made each year by the township advisory board on the estimate from the board of county commissioners, and not be paid over to the township trustee, but be expended by and through the supervision of the commissioners.

"Under the new laws no part of the road tax can be worked out, but must be paid in cash.

"It is my opinion that the township trustee, before paying over the money of the road fund now on hands into the county treasury, should free the fund from all legal and rightful claims against it, and do the same with the fund now levied.

"No provision is made in the new laws concerning the road tools and road machinery owned by the township, the same, therefore, remains the property of the township.

"Under Sec. 41 of the county unit road law it is provided, 'the plans and specifications shall include all bridges.' But Sec. 11 of the act provides that if a bridge is more than twenty feet in length that 'the board of commissioners shall receive separate bids and shall enter into a separate contract to build such bridge under the law now in force.' Where a bridge is more than twenty feet long it is the duty of the commissioners to let the contract separate.

"Sec. 14 of the county unit law provides that the county treasurer shall sell the bonds at not less than their face value. Sec. 15 provides that all bonds shall be sold by the county treasurer to the highest bidder therefor, but in no event at less than par. It is very clear to me that these two statutes mean that the treasurer shall receive the face value of the bond, together with any accrued interest thereon.

"In my opinion, it would be permissible for the county commissioners to make reasonable provision in the way of sheds and buildings in which to store and protect the tolls and property necessary for the carrying out of the highway law. That would be a necessary expenditure to prevent inevitable waste."

Dr. and Mrs. B. S. Shinness returned Saturday from Indianapolis where they spent the last week. They motored to Jefferson county and spent Sunday with Dr. Shinness' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shinness.

JUDGE SUES TRACTION COMPANY FOR $15,000

Charles F. Remy Seeks Damages for Alleged Injuries Sustained Last June.

Charles F. Remy, a judge in the Indiana appellate court, brought suit Saturday in a Marion superior court, for $15,000 damages against the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal Company for injuries alleged to have been received in a street car accident last June.

Judge Remy alleges that he alighted from a northbound Central avenue street car at Sixteenth street Indianapolis about 10 o'clock on the night of June 27, 1918, and was struck by a southbound Central avenue car while he was in the act of crossing to the west side of the street. As a result of this accident he alleges he suffered broken ribs and permanent injury. He is a brother of E. A. Remy, formerly a resident of Seymour.

Lloyd Carter, of Indianapolis, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Carter and family.

MORE RED BLOOD AND STEADIER NERVES FOR RUN DOWN PEOPLE

The World Demands, Strong, Vigorous, Keen-Minded, Men and Women

It has been said of Americans that they work their habits overtime.

Many become nervous and inefficient by overwork.

By worry, despondency, social affairs, robbing brain and body of needed rest; excessive use of tobacco, indulgence in strong alcoholic drink—excesses of every kind that burn up the vital powers so necessary in these trying times to make both men and women fit to be of help to themselves and others.

It is time to be temperate in all things. The man or woman with impaired nerves caused by impoverished blood lacks vigor, the ambition, the endurance and the keen mind of those who avoid excesses.

Timidness, despondency, fear, trembling hands, want of confidence and even cowardliness, are due in a large measure to abused nerves.

People with plenty of red blood corpuscles and strong, healthy nerves have no desire to shirk work and lean on others for guidance and support.

There is hardly a nerve-shattered man or woman (unless of an organic disease) in America today who cannot become alert and clear in mind; vigorous and energetic in body in a very few weeks and at trifling cost.

To become strong and ambitious, to feel that work is not drudgery: to have steady nerves, abundance of red blood and power of endurance; to be not only a man but as men now go, a superman, you must take seven tablets of Bio-feren every day for seven days—and take them faithfully.

Take two after each meal and one at bedtime and after seven days take one only after meal until the supply is exhausted.

Then if you feel that any claim made in this special notice is untrue—if your nerves are not twice as steady as before; if you do not feel ambitious, more vigorous and keen-minded, the pharmacist who dispensed the tablets to you will gladly hand you back just what you paid for them.

Bio-feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, rundown, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered direct through druggists and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

Mrs. Hattie Wright Dead.

Mrs. Hattie Wright, of Jonesville, died at 2 o'clock this morning at the hospital in Columbus, following an operation for gall stones. She was forty-two years old and was the wife of Phineas Wright, a farmer. Mrs. Wright is survived by her husband, three daughters and one son, besides a large circle of friends. The funeral services will be conducted from the residence at Jonesville Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, by the Rev. George Murphy, pastor of the Columbus M. E. church.

Sent to Asylum.

Miss Lizzie Kieth, who signed a statement that she set fire to a shed on the property owned by J. T. Himler, West Tipton street, "just for meanness," was sent to the state asylum at Madison by Judge Cox in circuit court late Saturday afternoon. She was under a charge for arson, following an investigation by a representative of the fire marshal's office and Melvin Jerrell, local fire chief. She will be taken to the institution at Madison Wednesday.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES ROUND UP "SILENT VOTE"

Strength of John Fitzpatrick, Labor Candidate a Factor in Chicago Contest.

By United Press.

Chicago, March 31—The three major candidates for mayor in Chicago today were spending the late hours of the campaign in rounding up the "silent vote" which wiseacres believed would be the deciding factor.

While all managers of candidates claimed majorities of from 75,000 to 100,000 votes, few outside the camps ventured guesses.

The candidacy of John Fitzpatrick, labor nominee, was an admitted puzzling factor.

Major Managers agreed that if he should surprise the city by polling what many claimed he will—60,000 votes—any one of the big three may be upset.

Mayor William Hale Thompson, republican nominee for re-election; Robert M. Sweitzer, democrat, and Maclay Hoyne, independent, will close their campaigns with theater speeches tonight. The wind up today was expected to turn the downtown district into a bedlam. Sixty labor unions were reported to have voted to quit work tomorrow to patrol polling places in the interest of their candidates.

Put Total War Cost at 450 Billions

London.—The direct cost of the war is estimated at $200,000,000,000 in a special article in the Daily Telegraph. The author estimates the indirect cost of diminished trade and financial disturbance at $250,000,000,000.

"Vast sums," he says, "have been used for sheer destruction, and vast public debts have been incurred for which there is no corresponding property. Throughout two-thirds of the world the work of useful production has been suspended during four years and its place has been taken for the slaughter of human lives and annihilation of accumulated wealth.

"But there is a moral aspect to be taken into account. We may at least hope that we have put an end forever to the danger of Prussian militarism. If out of the ruins of the last four years there arises a new, brighter and happier world, then the billions that have been spent will not all have been spent in vain."

COLD TEA SOLD IN "BOND"

United States Stamp Used by Oklahoma Bootlegger in New Swindle.

Okmulgee, Okla.—New hardships were heaped upon Okmulgee gentry who enjoy a "touch of likker," according to reports that are reaching the police and other officials. A new brand of bootlegger, who sells cold tea in bottles bearing a bona fide United States bonding stamp, is to blame for the hardships reported.

Since the New Year three persons have reported to Chief of Police Dick Farr that they got "stung" with a bottle of tea. One well-known business man paid $16 for a sealed quart which bore the official government stamp, but when he opened the bottle the only aroma that arose from it came from a mighty poor lot of cold tea. Another well-known man about town paid $6.50 for a sealed pint of tea, and a negro from out of town who made a winning in a crap game paid $8 each for two sealed pints.

BAR HUNTING FROM PLANES

Shooting of Wild Fowl by Airmen With Machine Guns Prohibited.

Washington—Shooting of wild fowl with machine guns from airplanes, the latest device employed by sportsmen along the Atlantic coast, has been forbidden by order of the director of military aeronautics. Instructions have been issued by the director to conduct all flights along the coast wherever migratory wild fowl may be found in such a manner to interfere as little as possible with the birds.

Heavy Child.

Kansas City, Mo.—The West Plains Quill reports the death of a child of 8 years from that place who weighed 227 pounds. At birth he only weighed three and one-half pounds but when a few months old began to put on weight.

VICTOR DEPARTMENT IS OPENED AT FEDERMANN'S

Attractive Demonstrating and Record Rooms Constructed in Rear of the Drug Store.

W. L. Federmann proprietor of the drug store, corner Second and Chestnut street, has purchased a Victor agency for Seymour and the vicinity, and will formally open a new department at his store. Attractive booths for demonstrating purposes have been erected and an apartment is also arranged for records. Mr. Federmann expects to carry a library of between two and three thousand records as soon as his orders can be filled by the company.

Orders for a complete line of machines have been placed, but on account of the great volume of business of the Victor company only the orders for the smaller types of machines can be filled immediately. The other models will be shipped here as soon as possible. The demonstration rooms have been attractively decorated and Mr. Federmann has been given encouragement that the business of this department will soon be very large.

"Tuning Up" The Motor

YOU have noticed, of course, that there is a big difference in the way that automobiles run. Some of them get over the ground, but the motor "misses" and the power is unsteady and jerky. The driver never knows just how his car is going to behave.

Then there are other cars that fairly "skim" over the roads with the soft, purring of the motor. You have noticed that such cars respond promptly and easily to the touch of the driver. There is always plenty of power for speed and hills.

The difference in the machines is the way they are adjusted.

Our mechanical experts know just what your car needs so that it will run with the responsive, purring sound.

Mr. A. H. Wagner, who served the government as a motor expert during the war, is at the head of our mechanical department. He has a personal knowledge of all makes of cars and can tell you just what is wrong with your machine.

On March 24 we will have two new mechanics so that your work can be done promptly. Bring your cars around and let us inspect them for you.

Farm Labor Problems

Because of the extraordinary weather conditions, spring plowing is well advanced throughout the state. This naturally makes less demand for farm labor.

Single men are in much demand and the supply is limited. On the other hand the man who is equipped to hire a married man by the year has a choice of several desirable applicants.

Wages vary from $30 to $60 according to location, nature of work, and ability of the laborer.

Whenever a farmer tells you he is unable to find help for the summer season, drive home the fact that a tenant house and an appropriate readjustment of the farm business offers the best solution to the hired help problem.

The future prosperity of our medium size and large farms depend upon the permanency and character of hired labor.

A married man hired by the year with his living as part of his emolument is the most satisfactory hired farm help.

A soldier without a job who wants work deserves your first consideration.

Farm Help Specialists are asked "to secure a list of all available farm opportunities either as skilled laborers, foremen, managers, renters, or farm owners and present them to camps in such force that they can be available to the men who are discharged."

It can readily be seen that such opportunities only exist for a short time and any list so prepared is incorrect at the time of its issue. So it is suggested that as calls for soldier help come in the county agents communicate directly by mail or wire with the Demobilization Officers at Camps Sherman, Taylor and Grant.

Many college boys in Indiana plan to go west for harvest work during vacation. Do we need any of them here? Are there communities in your county that will offer steady employment through haymaking and harvest to some of these boys? Send in the number you can use and I will make an effort to keep these boys in the state.

Any member of the Boy Reserves who served successfully on a farm last season should be given an opportunity to duplicate the performance. Even an inexperienced town boy when placed with the right farmer will give surprisingly efficient service.

Employment for rainy days and parts of days should be provided for the hired men. That will make possible by keeping all the work well up to schedule to allow some Saturday afternoons or circus days off. No farm hand considers a rainy day spent in loafing as a vacation even though his pay goes on.

There has been some inquiry concerning the best type of organization and best methods of settlement for co-operative threshing rings. While some sections of the state show progressive ideas along this line, others have practically no organization and make only crude attempts or none at all at an equitable adjustment of differences in help furnished. The Farm Help Specialist plans to devote May and June to giving such assistance as may be required on this project and on the extension of co-operative haymaking and harvesting groups.

A one reel film entitled "To Feed a Hungry World," which was taken on Indiana farms during the past harvest season, showing the use made on the farm of the City Men's Labor Reserve, has been received at this office and will be mailed to any point in the state where it can be shown in any moving picture house. Another reel showing the training of the boys at Purdue last summer when the Boy Reserve School was in operation, will be received in time for the State Club meeting here in April.

According to figures given out from the Office of the Provost Marshall General 842,927 farmers were inducted into the Army by draft. Approximately 100,000 farm boys volunteered. This makes nearly 1,000,000 farmers and farm workers of all classes who were taken for military service. The best estimate which we have places the number of men who left farms for war work of various kinds at about 1,500,000. This means that the enormous food production of last year was made by 2,500,000 fewer men than are usually employed on the farms.

"Eat More Lamb" is Slogan

Why does the man from Des Moines and Salt Lake City order pork chops and sirloin steaks when the Bostonian and New Yorker calls for lamb chops and roast leg of lamb? That is the question that has long puzzled those intimately connected with the market end of the sheep industry. "Habit" is the only satisfactory answer so far.

The states that pasture practically all the sheep are the ones that eat the least lamb and mutton. While the flocking instinct is being carefully cultivated and preserved by sheepmen in breeding operations, it is being actively discouraged among the consumers of lamb. A scattering of lamb-eaters throughout the country would convince the balance of the population of the true value of this meat sooner than the close congestion of them on the Atlantic Coast, believe the officials of the National Wool Growers' Association. As it is impracticable to scatter these friends of the wooly tribe across the land, the alternative of making new converts to the cause is being undertaken in these slacker lamb-eating states.

After a thorough introduction, the rest is easy, for lamb customers are repeaters, and why shouldn't they be? Lamb and mutton are higher in calorie value than beef. They are free from communicable diseases. Did you ever hear of a case of tuberculosis from lamb, or trichinae, or tapeworm? The sheep is the cleanest and daintiest of meat producing animals—its flesh is second to none. Given a fair trial it will sell itself as it has so often in the past.

A broader demand will benefit both producer and consumer. The present $20 lamb market is directly due to the poor demand of a few weeks past. Prices did not stand up under a temporary surplus and feeders becoming discouraged unloaded their stock. The supply gone, prices started skyward. A steady demand would have brought a steady flow and uniform prices would have resulted which would have been best for both ends of the business.

Use Self-feeder for Young Pigs

(By James R. Wiley, Puurdue Extension Department.)

Teach the spring pigs to eat by putting shelled corn and tankage or other suitable feeds in separate compartments of a self-feeder in a creep when the pigs are four to six weeks old and get them safely through the trying weaning stage with little work and worry is the message which many prominent Hoosier hog raisers would convey to the farmers of Indiana, judging by replies to inquiries regarding their method of feeding young pigs during the past year.

Arthur Thompson, a prominent hog raiser in Wabas county, has used a self-feeder for feeding young pigs for several years. "I'll never go back to hand feeding young pigs," he says. "I can get a more even, thrifty, growthy bunch of 50 pound pigs by feeding shelled corn and tankage and good wheat middlings, if available, in separate self-feeders as soon as the pigs begin to eat grain than by hand feeding. What is the use of going to all the extra labor of slopping when I do not gain anything by it?"

Similar statements have been made by good farmers in all parts of Indiana. In some instances ground barley is fed along with shelled corn and tankage. Sometimes a mixture such as two-thirds cracked corn and one-third ground oats, by weight with tankage in a separate division of the self-feeder is fed. Or it may be a high class hominy feed and tankage when the farmer has no farm-grown grains to feed.

Four to five years ago very few farmers would have advised the use of a self-feeder for young pigs. Gradually however the most progressive have learned that a pig weighing 20 to 60 pounds is quite capable of feeding himself properly and economically, if given access to the right kinds of feeds in a self-feeder, and often more capable of doing it than the farmer, himself.

Pickard Brothers, of Marion Oregon, do not claim to be fancy farmers or anything of the sort. They started in dairying, like thousands of other men do, with very small capital. They had high ambitions and they have so nearly realized them that they now promise to stand among the greatest breeders of dairy cattle in the world. This has been done with their herd of working Jerseys, which now holds two world's championships, and from which another champion may appear any day.

The new champion is Old Man's Darling 2nd. She becomes the new champion junior four-year-old of the Jersey breed by having made 984.86 pounds butter fat in one year, which eclipses the record of Sophie's Adora by 96.86 pounds fat.

Old Man's Darling 2nd is the offspring of a great bull in the hands of skillful breeders, The sire of Old Man's Darling 2nd is Golden Glow's Chief, who is also the sire of Vive La France, the cow which holds the Jersey record for three-year-olds with the production of 892 pounds butter-fat.

The new champion Old Man's Darling 2d, has a previous record of 694 pounds fat, which was made when she was two years old. She is a show animal as well as a producer, and was grand champion at the Oregon State Fair in 1916.

Boys and Girls Recognize Club Winners as Leaders

(By W. B. Krueck)

At a recent meeting of the boys and girls in St. Joseph county the enthusiastic youngsters recognized their county winners as leaders for the coming years. John Burke, the indomitable corn grower, in St. Joseph county, who after several years of consistent corn club work was awarded the state prize for the northern section in 1918 was elected president of the county boys and girls club. He is an enthusiastic consistent worker and it is hoped that he may put his association on the map in the same way that he has handled his corn work.

Miss Vernice Grenert who was awarded the State Championship in the Bread Baking Contest in 1918 was elected Secretary. The day was a big day for club work in St. Joseph county. About three hundred and fifty boys and girls attended the meeting. After a very pleasant luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce building a meeting was held in the high school auditorium. Talks were made by representatives of the boys' and girls' club division at Purdue University after which Mr. Longfield, Superintendent of Schools, presented the successful workers with achievement pins and certificates of recognition of the work that had been done.

J. S. Bordner, county agent, who has taken considerable interest in the work outlined the projects for the coming year and announced the prizes that were already offered. Plans were made for a big summer meeting and picnic to be held in June.

1918 Boys' and Girls' Clubs

During 1918 there were 649 Boys' and Girls' Clubs organized in Indiana with a total enrollment of 27,152 members. Of these 17,293 made final reports. The total value of the products produced by those reporting was $363,835.65 or an average of $21.03 per member.

A point of much interest and gratification to the club workers is the fact that only about 35 per cent. of the enrollment consisted of new workers. This would indicate that the boys and girls who have gone through a year as a club member like the work and are glad to stay with it.

At present there are a great many communities busy organizing clubs and the prospects for some good work look bright. In some counties the work is being handled entirely by the county agent and home demonstration agent, but the time of these persons is usually so fully taken up by other work that many townships have employed local supervisors to work under the direction of the county agent.

The Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue University has a force of men and women giving their time and attention to this work. Any one interested in organizing a club and wishing information on the plan of organization and conducting a club should address the county agent or the Boys' and Girls' Club Division, Purdue University, at Lafayette.

Soy Beans Made Field Productive

A number of farmers in Pulaski county are co-operating with the county agent, I. J. Mathews, in demonstrating the value of soy beans in building up the soil. Here is what George Waybrew, of Franklin township wrote about the soy beans:

"Three years ago while driving the road I found part of a vine of soy beans. I took these home and planted them and from this start I got about a gallon of seed. The next year this gallon of seed was planted and produced about three bushels. Last year I grew three acres of beans and they yielded about ten bushels to the acre.

"On the spot of ground where these thirty bushels of soy beans were grown, I had continually tried to grow corn. The wire worms kept taking it. They did not bother the soy beans at all, and I would have raised on this patch about five bushels of corn. I have grown both soy beans and cowpeas and I prefer soy beans because the stock seems to eat them much better and they are better yielders."

LIMESTONE AIDS WHEAT AND CLOVER YIELDS

Six tons of ground limestone to the acre made little difference on the oats yield in 1916 on the farm of Wilbur Chapman, of Monroe, Pulaski County, he said. A check strip through the field showed only a slight improvement. "However, the next year it increased the yield of wheat five bushels to the acre and in the result on clover there was no comparison," said Mr. Chapman. Where we left off the lime there was scarcely any clover and on the limed area the yield was one and a half tons to the acre greater.

Fertilize the Orchard if You Want Big Yields

(By Joseph Oskamp, of Purdue University.)

Fertilizers are becoming more and more used by the successful orchardist. When the right kind of fertilizer is applied at the right time, many growers report a 100 per cent increase in yield the first year.

The most widely used and readily available source of nitrogen for the orchard is nitrate of soda. It is not all trees however, which need or will respond to its use. Young trees up to eight or ten years old do not ordinarily require fertilization unless on certain types of poor soil not very common in Indiana. In trees of this age it is more often moisture that is lacking and tillage or a heavy mulch of straw, shredded fodder, etc., will accomplish the desired results.

When the trees become older and have depleted the soil by several crops of fruit, the use of fertilizer is very profitable, even on soils considered quite fertile. The growth made by the trees and their crop performance will give one an idea whether they will respond to nitrate. Trees making a growth of 10 to 14 inches and bearing satisfactory crops should not be fertilized extensively before trying the effect of fertilizer on a small scale. On the other hand trees making a growth of one to four inches with yellowish foliage, which falls earlier, are almost sure to be benefitted by an application of sodium nitrate.

Five pounds applied to each mature tree is a safe recommendation until an actual trial can be made by the orchard owner. In cases where the trees are particularly unthrifty and the soil is very deficient in nitrogen as high as 10 or even 20 pounds per mature tree might be desirable. Scatter the fertilizer broadcast beneath the spread of branches of each tree. It is not necessary to work it into the soil, but it is important to apply the fertilizer sufficiently early before growth starts so that the rains can time. Apply a month to six weeks carry it down where it will be available to the tree roots at the critical time. Apply a month to six weeks before bloom.

Control Peach Leaf Curl To Help This Year's Crop

Peach Leaf Curl, which is common in Indiana, will greatly reduce the crop of the young orchards this year unless it is prevented by spraying at the proper time. The severe winter of 1917-18 reduced the total peach acreage in Indiana by 60 to 75 per cent. and the injury was most severe on older orchards. This spring the peach buds are practically all alive and unless there is a frost during the blooming period, the Hoosier crop bids fair to be a good one.

The fungus which causes the curling of the peach tree leaves in the summer, winters over on the bark and on the bud scales in the form of small spores. About the time that growth starts in the spring these spores germinate and attack the open leaves causing them to be thick, fleshy, deformed and reddish in color, and finally to fall. Thus, the growing fruit with only a partial leaf surface is left to manufacture the proper amount of food necessary for its development," says C. L. Burkholder, Horticultural extension man, Purdue University.

"Fortunately the curl is a disease that is easily controlled. Spraying with lime-sulphur solution, one gallon to eight of water, will destroy the spores which are wintering over the tree. This is the same strength spray used to control scale insects which infest the peach so that the two things are accomplished by the one spray, in the same application.

Where scale is absent the lime-sulphur solution may be used one gallon to 20 of water with equally good control of the curl. One pound of copper sulphate or blue stone to 26 gallons of water can be substituted for the lime-sulphur for the control of the curl alone, but has no effect on the scale insects.

These strengths of lime-sulphur recommended are based on the supposition that the concentrated solution tests 32 degrees Baume.

Remember that it takes careful thorough spraying to cover the entire surface of the tree and curl or scale can neither one be controlled by covering three-fourths or four-fifths of the tree, said Mr. Burkholder.

Foulbrood in Bees

Did you ever hear it said, "The moths killed the bees?" They do no damage to strong healthy colonies of bees and only destroy combs in hives weakened by disease.

A serious handicap to the bee industry is foulbrood; a disease that weakens colonies by reducing the number of emerging bees needed to replace the adult bees which die from natural causes. It is of two kinds; American and European.

The American foulbrood shows itself in the brood about the time the larval fill the cells, at the time the cells are sealed over. Healthy brood is pearly white. With American foulbrood the brood becomes slightly brownish, and the larval loses its well rounded appearances and gradually sinks down in the cell and becomes dark brown. If a toothpick is inserted in the decaying mass and withdrawn the larva remains adhered to it and are drawn out in a thread which sometimes extends for several inches without breaking. This ropiness is the chief characteristic used by beekeepers in diagnosing the disease.

European foulbrood attacks the larval at an earlier stage of its development, and while it is curled up at the base of the cell. The chief characteristic of this disease is the yellow color. It is not ropy. It is very destructive in the early summer, when it spreads very rapidly. It is thought the young bees, nurse bees, suck the juices from the dead larval and feed it to other larva.

Both forms of foulbrood can be controlled by keeping bees in standand hives, with removable combs, permitting the beeman to detect and properly treat it.

Every one who keeps bees in box hives or log gums is liable to lose their bees from this disease, which is in Jackson county, and is a menace to other beekeepers.

Better join the Jackson County Beekeepers Association and learn how to transfer your bees to standard hives and treat them if diseased.

Beemen to Have Short Course at Purdue

A short course for commercial beemen will be given at Purdue University April 7 to 12 by the entomology department and the U. S. Bureau Agriculture, Prof, J. Troop, head of the department, announced. The course was arranged following requests of beemen throughout the state for such work.

Dr. E. F. Phillips and G. S. Smith, both of Washington, will have regular places on the program of lectures. E. R. Root, Medina, O., and C. P. Dadant or Frank C. Pellet, of Hamilton, Ill., widely known beemen, also will likely take part in the course. Other speakers will be successful beemen from the state and members of the university staff.

Among the topics to be discussed are "Fundamentals of Bee Behavior and Beekeeping Practice, Outside of the Active Season," "During the Active Season," "Queen Rearing," "Spring Management," "Maximum Crop in Indiana," "Locality," "Factors Influencing Nectar Secretion," and "Evolution of Bee-Keeping Practices in the U. S."

Pointed discussions will be allowed on each topic after the lectures. There will be two evening sessions, at one of which lantern slides will be shown. An incidental fee of $1 to cover expenses will be charged. Beemen throughout the state are urged to attend as much laboratory work will be given as well as the lectures.

A Nation's Safety depends upon more than wealth or the power of its mighty guns. It rests in its robust children and in its strong, vigorous manhood.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The Walk Home.

Claudia Marshall sat at the head of her stately table in the Palmyra, mute as a statue but for the burning eyes which followed her Tod. To Innes, her guest, it was a tragic presence, of brooding solicitude.

Late hours, excitement, might abridge the life she so passionately policed; but she would not demand the sacrifice of his cigar.

Marshall's cigar followed the coffee. Tony, the white-capped Italian cook of the Palmyra, was removing the cups. Innes was carrying her double interest, listening to Tod Marshall's broad sweep, getting a new viewpoint as he minimized the local scheme—feeling that silent presence at the head of the table.

Then something drove Claudia from her mind. What Mr. Marshall had said swept a disturbing calcium on Tom. What if, truly, the river fiasco could be traced to that overzealous hand? To Tom, this undertaking blotted out the rest of related big endeavor; but that was not the way her host was looking at it. He was too courteous to give her discomfort; he had not said it directly. But always it met her, rose up to smite her, wherever she was. Was it not egotism, personal pride, that was making her cover her eyes, like any simple ostrich? Her brother—assume him anybody else's brother! The dredge fiasco—the wild night at the levee—no isolated accidents those. Hardin's luck!

A flush of miserable shame came to her. How they had all been trying to spare her—Eduardo, these kindly Marshalls—MacLean! She was turning, impulsively, to ask Tod Marshall if he thought, could he think it probable that they would fail, when a step that sent the blood to her face took the car's stairs at two leaps. Now, indeed, the dinner was spoiled.

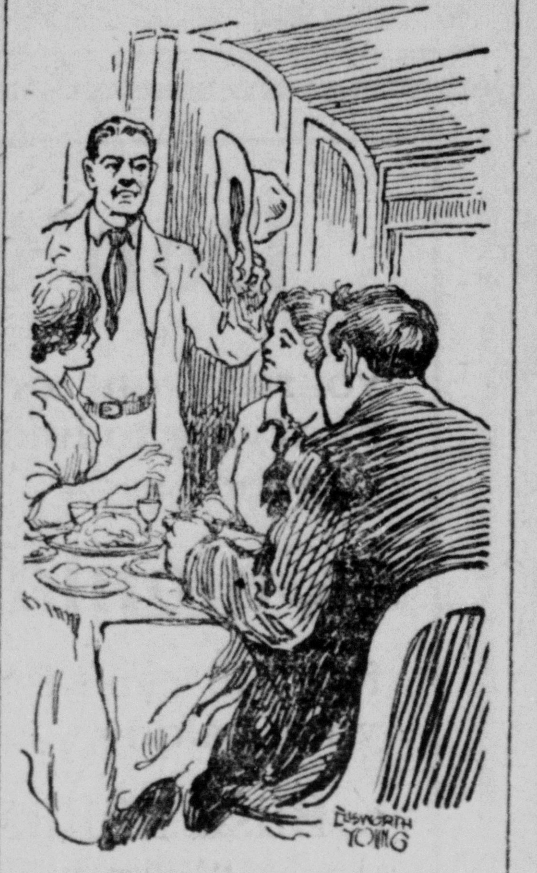
"That's Rickard. I forgot to tell you that I asked him to dinner. He couldn't get away. He said he'd run in for coffee. Hello, Rickard. Thought you'd forgotten us!"

She hadn't thought of that contingency! She found herself shaking hands with him. Could he not hear her mind, ticking away at the Maldonado episode?

Of course he would insist on seeing her to her tent. Punctilious, always. Well, she just wouldn't. Perhaps she could slip out some way. She would watch her chance.

"Can I talk shop for a while?" asked Rickard.

They withdrew to a cushioned window seat. Innes had found her chance. She asked to be shown over the car. Innes confided her plan. She wanted to slip out. "She would not interrupt their evening; Mr. Marshall had business to discuss—"



"Thought You'd Forgotten Us."

Mrs. Marshall would not hear of it. She said that Mr. Marshall would never forgive her if she let Miss Hardin go home alone. Her opposition was softly implacable.

Innes went back to the sitting room of the car angrily coerced. Rickard was still closeted, conversationally, with his superior.

At last, desperately, she rose to go. Of course, he must insist upon going with her. Of course!

"I was going back early, anyway. I'm to be up at dawn tomorrow."

The good-bys were said. She found herself walking rebelliously by his side. "No, thank you!" to the offer of his arm.

The night was bright with stars. "Bright as day, isn't it?" Because her voice was curt, and she had not used his name, the rising inflection helped a little! Hateful, to stumble over a rut in the road! Of course, he'd make her take his arm! Of course!

Rickard grasped her elbow. She walked along, her head high, her cheeks flaming, anger surging through her at his touch.

Stupid to press this companionship, this awkward silence on her. If he thought she was going to entertain him, as Gerty did, with her swift chatter, he'd be surprised! Any other two people would fall into easy give-and-take, but what could she, Innes Hardin, find to chatter about with this man stalking along, grimly grasping her arm? Close as they were, his touch reminding her every minute, between them walked her brother and her brother's wife—and there was the Mexican—hateful memory! Of course she could not be casual. And she would not force it. He had brought this about. Let him talk, then!

Oppressive that silence. Then it came to her that she would ask him the question that his coming had aborted. A glance at his face found him smiling. He found it amusing? Not for worlds, then, would she speak. And they stalked along. Unconsciously she had pulled herself away from him. He took her hand and put it in the crotch of his arm. "That's better," he said. She wondered if he were still smiling.

Their path led by his tent. Neither of them noticed a subdued light through the canvas walls. As they reached the place a figure darted from the door.

"Oh, senor, I thought you would never come." It was the wife of Maldonado. Her expression was lost on Innes. The face was quivering with terror.

"Mr. Rickard," Innes' words like icicles, "I will leave you here. It is quite unnecessary to come farther." Quite unveiled her meaning!

It came so quickly that he was not ready; nor indeed had Gerty's innuendoes yet reached him. But the situation was uncomfortable. He turned sharply to the Mexican.

"Come in," he took her roughly by the arm. She would wake up the camp with her crying. He put her in a chair. "Now tell your story." The woman had got to be a nuisance. He couldn't have her coming around like this. He had seen that look in the girl's eyes—"Murdered? Who did you say was murdered?"

She lifted a face, frightened into haggardness. "Maldonado and the girl."

The night was stripped to the tragedy. "You found them?"

Her face was lifted imploringly to him. "Oh, senor, it was not I. By the Mother of Christ, it was not I."

Rickard was not sure. Her fear made him suspect her. "Who was it, you think?"

"Felipe," she gasped. "He got away from the rurales—he came back. He went home—there was no one there. Some one told him where she had gone. He came to Maldonado's. Lucrezia, the eldest, opened the gate. He was terrible, she said. He rushed past her. And when he came out his hands were red. The children heard cries. They were afraid to go in. I got there last night. I went in. They were not quite cold—I was afraid to stay. It would look like me, senor. Will they take me, senor?" She was a wreck of terror.

"Not if what you tell me is true. Now, get to bed. I'll give you something that will make you sleep." He hustled her out and prepared the draught.

He wondered as he got into bed as to the truth of her story. Disgusting, such animal terror! Awkward hole, that. Fate seemed possessed to queer him with those Hardins!

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

North East West South

Supposing that, beginning to-morrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a furore the public would make. "News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients." "All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements."

Then we would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this age in the world's history.

What genii are they that have crowded the last fifty years with so much of advantage to humans? They are legion in number, but not least among them is Advertising.

Our day is the greatest time the world has seen because we have more to be happy with, better things, greater variety, greater comforts gathered together from the North, East, West and South for our choosing and selection. Look about you. This is the day of better food, better homes, better clothing, better babies, better health, better business. And advertising is the instrument that makes these better things possible.

Advertising is the News of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world and all working for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best there is in everything and telling the world about it.

Read advertising. Keep abreast of to-day. Advertising furnishes you with facts and opportunities that you would otherwise never know.

A Mother's Happiness Made Perfect

Of Utmost Importance That She Have Every Care.

The expectant mother's physical comfort should be our first thought, and all about her should see to it that her preparation for baby's coming be complete.

There is a most splendid remedy to prepare women for the greatest time in their lives, known as Mother's Friend. It is applied to the muscles of the abdomen, gently rubbed in, and at once penetrates to relieve strain on nerves, cords and ligaments. It makes the muscles so pliant that they expand easily when baby arrives; the hours at the time are fewer, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally avoided.

Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided discomfort and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided. Every nerve, muscle and tendon is thoroughly lubricated. Discomfort during the period is counteracted, and the skin, after the crisis, is left smooth and natural.

Write to the Bradfield Regulator Company, Dept. B, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the drug store today without fail.
